Dear Board Members:

The recent policy changes for CAMFT Committees were discussed at the November 18, 2016 meeting of the Crisis Response Education and Resource Committee. We have three concerns about the policies that have negatively impacted the work of our committee and our service to the membership.

The number of volunteers who can serve on the Committee has been cut by a third. This has diminished the level of expertise available in this specialized field and reduced the amount of work that we can accomplish. With the increased work load we are forced to reduce our Committee goals and offer less service to the membership.

The new policy of limiting service as the Committee Chair to only two years has reduced our effectiveness as a work group. All group dynamics are unique and our committee members are the best ones to select the most skilled and effective member to lead us. This requirement has forced the Committee to remove a well-respected leader to be replaced by a reluctant volunteer when all other members refused to accept the role as Committee Chair.

The reduction in the number of in-person meetings for this committee has seriously reduced our effectiveness. The projects and tasks undertaken by this committee are such that they cannot be accomplished without the benefit of the creative group process. The limitations of teleconferencing are too severe to support the interaction and the give-and-take that are demanded by the work of this committee.

Connection is a CAMFT core value. When we cannot meet in person, we don’t feel connected and we lose motivation. The work of all CAMFT committee volunteers must be respected and appreciated. Their service often costs them financially with lost income and other personal expenses. Contributing to our profession and feeling connected with our colleagues is our only compensation.

We respectfully request that the Board revise committee policies to allow 1) flexibility in the number of committee members, 2) committee members to select their Chair, 3) more than one in-person meeting per year.

We also ask the Board to consider managing CAMFT committees by establishing a budget for each committee and allowing each committee to determine the size, meeting frequency, and other expenses to fit within that budget.

In the future, we would appreciate having input before policies that affect our committee are changed.

Thank you for your time in hearing our concerns and considering our recommendations.

Victoria Campbell
Chair of the Crisis Response Education and Resource Committee
